

MORNING APPEAL.

ATURDAY.....JANUARY 25

A bill is to be introduced in Congress at an early day for the establishment of a penal colony in Alaska, where criminals of a certain class could be sent out from this country, something after the custom in Russia, by which convicts are sent to Siberia. The measure does not embrace the very severe features of the Russian law, but has its object nevertheless, the securing of means by which crime of the greater sort could be lessened in this country. Those who have made a study of crime and have given some thought to the disposition of the criminal class, are viewing the introduction of the bill with much favor. They claim that it is not a wild, impracticable scheme, but a feasible and progressive measure. Senator McPherson of New Jersey, is the special champion of the bill. The average convict, he holds, has no fear of the modern prisons. He has come to regard them as free boarding houses and convenient winter quarters. The criminals, the Senator thinks, could be used to good advantage in developing the rich Alaskan mineral resources.

A remarkable and unique ordinance was passed by the City Council in Provo, recently. It was substantially an ordinance for the building of a high fence around a certain saloon in town, known as the Blue Goose, to prevent access in any other way except the one front door which faces the public square, the most prominent position of the town. Up to within a very short time ago one of the Councilmen was bartender of the above saloon, and for some time his services were dispensed with, consequently the ordinance, which from his knowledge of the private affairs of the saloon, will hurt their business.

The light rain will be of considerable value at this stage of the storm. It will saturate the snow sufficiently on the surface to prevent it drifting, should a wind come up. The roads will then be opened and a possibility of another blockade would be removed. The snow on the ground will probably not disappear for the next two months, but when it does go every inch of ground in Nevada will absorb moisture.

The Supt. of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Co., has issued an order that all the train employes must appear on duty with clean shaven faces. The reason he gives is that they must look as neat and clean as possible. Some of the men with fine beards and mustaches have thrown up their job rather than submit to this rule.

The long distance telephone companies are putting up lines all over the Eastern States. This has made Jay Gould tremble for the sake of the Western Union Co., but the final result will be a cheap system for the people who are to be considered more than Jay.

There need be no fear of a flood in the event of either a thaw or a rain. A thaw will run off as fast as the snow melts, and there is enough snow to absorb all the rain the town is likely to get.

It is said there are about 600 delayed passengers at Reno all of whom are cursing the various railroad managements. It's as much as a railroad man's life is worth to appear on the street.

BAD ROADS TO GENOA.—The Genoa stage had a hard time of it day before yesterday. The horses were taken out of the traces and allowed to go some distance ahead. A rope was then attached to the sleigh, connecting with the horses, and the sleigh lifted out of the direct line of the road, allowing it to drag on the crust of the snow, while the horses foundered along as best they could. Another team had to be dug out of the snow three times between here and the saloon, which is about half way to Genoa.
